Fifty-five thousand seats, a mobile cover for the ground game powered by solar energy, a large cut in the volume stands behind the house where an Olympic swimming pool, two indoor courts for soccer, volleyball, handball, tennis, hockey, a fitness center, equipped gyms, the Museum of Sydney, businesses, restaurants, cultural and entertainment venues.

This is the dream of the President of Lazio: the Stadio delle Aquile. The company aims straight on stage, as announced yesterday by a number biancoceleste Claudio Lotito in an exclusive interview published by our newspaper. The club is accelerating the timetable for building the new plant.

Three sites identified: the first is the Magliana, the second is in the territory belonging to the town of Fiumicino, the third is on Tiberina, on land owned by the same president of Lazio.

The novelty is that the mayor of Rome Gianni Alemanno, a few days ago, had already conducted a survey with the same properties of Lotito in a number biancoceleste. The basic problem for the construction of the stadium on Tiberina remains the environmental bond: a few hundred meters runs the Tiber, and the area which would be built on the new plant would necessarily be vacated in case of flooding of the river itself. That was the thinking of the former Municipal Board.

But the survey conducted by the mayor of Rome seems to be much more than a glimmer. Lotito pushing for the new stadium Lazio may arise directly on the land. The project of the plant is ready and bring economic benefits massive. In the budget has already revealed that the stadium is increasingly taking shape: "The company has further developed the program for the creation of a multi-sports center, with football stadium, improving the technical projects, identifying areas which may arise and intensifying with the competent authorities the reports and programs aimed at the issue of authorization and the consequent practical. This is a particularly intense and continuous that begins to outline the desired results. "

The company has already developed a financial plan to start building the new plant which will have the forums sponsored by companies. It is no case has been concluded an agreement with a primary international marketing that will bring in the vaults of Lazio 42 million euros over the next six years. Beyond the new agreement concluded by the marketing, Lazio will qualify for many other types of income, increasing revenues substantially.

By the end of 2008, up to January 2009, the City of Rome is planning to launch the "draft stage" by giving the green light to the two companies for the design of new facilities. The Olympic stadium would become the national stadium, is hosting the official world champions of football, both the selection of rugby with the six nations. The stadium on Tiberina is the primary project is following the Lazio: if the project was rejected, they are ready the two other solutions that would switch to considering institutions.
